EAST HEBRON.

Hebron Grange.
The twentieth anniversary of East Hebron Grange was observed Saturday, this being the date of the regular meeting nearest the date of the anniversary. This Grange was organized Jan. 14th, 1889, by Deputy C. H. George of Hebron, assisted by J. L. Hebron of Hebron Grange as secretary and other members of Hebron Grange as organizing officers. The Charter membership consisted of 15 brothers and 15 sisters.

The day was one that was well calculated to bring out a crowd. At noon a chicken dinner was served with all the "fixins." The dinner was in charge of a committee consisting of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Conant, Geo. F. Needham, Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Dunbar.

The morning session was devoted to routine work. After the exchange of greetings during the noon hour the grange reassembled for an open meeting. The program for the afternoon was devoted to reminiscences of the early history of this Grange and the chairs were filled by "charter officers" as far as possible as follows:

M.—W. H. Berry.
O.—J. E. Bailey.
L.—Louise M. Young.
A.—S. F. O. Ramsdell.
C.—J. O. Thorne.
Treas.—E. F. Ramsdell.
G.—K. A. M. Fogg.
Cores.—Mrs. M. M. Brown.
Pomona.—Mrs. W. H. Berry.
Flora.—Mrs. L. L. Snel.
L. A.—S. Mrs. Hattie Packard.

Other numbers were: vocal solo by Rev. F. E. Lamb, "The Bridge" by Mrs. Geo. H. Allen, accompanist. Mr. Lamb responded to a hearty encore. Grange Herald of 1897 by the original address, Mrs. W. H. Packard; music by choir; reading by J. N. Irish. Mr. Irish was recalled with another selection, "The Burning of the Note." Remarks by the worthy master, J. F. Saunders, relating the condition financially of East Hebron Grange and displaying the only written obligation against the Grange which was committed to the flames and the highest enthusiasm of the Grange.

Wilson Conant has purchased the John Harper farm.

W. H. Barry cut his foot while working in the woods.

Pearl Merrill and family of Lynn spent last week at H. N. Merrill's.

Answer This Question

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured numerous cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Here are two letters which prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Red Banks, Miss.—"Words are inadequate to express what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered from a female disease and weakness which the doctors said was caused by a fibroid tumor, and I commenced to think there was no help for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman after all other means had failed. My friends are all asking what has helped me so much, and I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Willie Edwards.

Hampstead, Maryland.—"Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was weak and nervous, and could not be on my feet half a day without suffering. The doctors told me I never would be well without an operation, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than all the doctors, and I hope this valuable medicine may come into the hands of many more suffering women."—Mrs. Joseph H. Dandy.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

What more proof can any one ask?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

Mrs. Parmelia (Lord) Cobb.
The community was saddened to learn of the death of Mrs. Parmelia (Lord) Cobb of Gorham, N. H., widow of the Rev. John Cobb of the Maine Methodist conference, which occurred Sunday evening at seven o'clock at her home on South street, Gorham, after an illness of only six days. Her age was 72 years, 6 months, and she was the daughter of the late Cyrus and Harriet (Gammon) Lord of Norway which town was her birthplace.
This noble Christian woman was well known throughout the State, was universally beloved and will be much missed by the many who have had the privilege of her friendship.
She was an honored and valued member of the South St. Methodist church, a teacher in the Sunday school and an active worker in the Home Missionary and Ladies Aid societies. She was also a member of John R. Adams Relief Corps. Her interests were many and they were all faithfully administered. Cheerful in disposition, sympathetic in spirit and responsive in need in any and all its forms, she filled a large place in the life of the community.
Her nearest relatives are a nephew, Stephen A. Lord of Lewiston, a niece, Elizabeth F. Edgerly of South Paris and two cousins, Mrs. Vira Kilgore of Norway and Freeman Lord of Auburn.
The funeral was held at ten o'clock Wednesday forenoon from her late residence, the impressive service being conducted by Rev. Peter Black, assisted by Rev. E. C. Strout of Nashua, N. H. Edith Jackson sweetly rendered two selections, "Thy Will Be Done, and Abide with Me." There was a profusion of beautiful flowers. The remains were taken to Norway for burial in Pine Grove cemetery and the pall bearers were Prof. W. E. Russell, Geo. P. Plaisted, Henry N. Sweetser and Roscoe G. Harding.

The Old Lovell Center Families
And Their Descendants.

No. 3—WRITTEN BY JOSEPH ANDREWS.
Col. Barker has been dead quite a long time. His wife but for a year or two. Of the Cyrus Messer family all but Edwin moved away. Emily and Sarah are both dead. Charles lives in a near-by manufacturing city. Mary is a widow and lives in New Hampshire. Loree and her family moved to California years ago where she is married and has two children. Her husband is dead and last summer she returned to Lovell with the intention of taking care of her brother Edwin while he lived.

Of Uncle Daniel Warren's large family all I think are gone and I believe that they all moved away. Webster was drowned in a swollen river in Pennsylvania and Alvin fell fighting for his country in the assault on Fort Fisher in the rebellion.

Joshua Cobb and his family all moved away and I have lost track of them. Henry Little, who used to run a shingle mill at Alder brook, I well remember as a boy. He went south when a young man and I think never returned. To Ebenezer Hamblin, who sold his farm to Ebenezer Hamblin, moved to Cambria county, Pa.

Of Mr. Hamblin's two daughters, Mary married Eugene Barker of whom I shall speak later; Clara married and is living in Portland.

Abraham Andrews Barker was one of two of Lovell Center's sons who rose by their own exertions to national prominence, and it would take a good sized book to properly write either of their histories. He lived upon the farm where Benjamin Russell now lives. He and his wife had four children. Rev. Mr. Little and here his four stalwart sons were born. In 1855 he moved to Ebenezer, Cambria county, Pa., where he shrewd investments in timber lands and hard work he laid the foundation for a fortune. He was by trade a cooper and he knew the value of the vast oak forests that abounded in that portion of the state. He built many cooper shops for the manufacture of shooks, and the molasses hogsheds when packed for shipment were called, and hired a large number of men to work in them. He established a newspaper in Ebenezer, and was elected to Congress in 1882. He was an intimate friend of Lincoln, Grant and other noted men of his day.

He was a strong anti-slavery and temperance advocate, and when a young man living in Lovell he laid the foundation for his latter political life by going to schoolhouse where he was not known and lecturing on his favorite subject.

He was a man of large stature and of great strength. It is said that on one occasion, when he was loading a car with heavy shooks, that he had two men inside to pile them up while he tossed them in, but as they could not keep up with him he changed places with them and could more than keep out of their way.

Mr. Barker died a few years ago and his wife about 20 years ago. Of their four sons Valentine died about three years ago, leaving a wife and two children, and a beautiful home. Florinette has a wife and one son, an eye specialist who has studied in Europe; Augustine is a lawyer of distinction who has served his country as judge. He has one son, also a lawyer. Judge Barker by naming his oldest daughter Lovell M. Constantine, the youngest of four brothers, is a merchant. He is married and has a fine home. He with his two older brothers have for many years owned the Barker Bros. firm. They have a large store and do an immense mercantile and lumber business. Ebenezer is a city of about 2,000 population situated almost at the top of the Alleghany mountains, and one of the most beautiful and clean small cities that I have ever visited.

We now come to the fine country home of Major John Barker. He married Salina, daughter of Rev. Little of Lovell. After the death of Mr. Little Mrs. Barker the family of five children all left Lovell. Aretas became a doctor and settled at Effingham, N. H., where he died. Mariette married Dr. Stearns and lived in Washington, D. C., many years, where she died. Ella married and moved away and is now dead. Frank moved to Effingham, N. H., where he married and is a prosperous farmer. Eugene married Mary Hamblin of Lovell. For years he was organist at the Congregational church at the Center, and she was one of the singers in the choir. They moved first to Ebenezer, Pa.; for the past 20 years have been living at Johnstown, Pa., where I had the pleasure of meeting them last July after the lapse of 40 years. I found them in the same home of their first years. Their only son is married and lives with them. Mr. Barker has long been a trusted bookkeeper in the employ of the Cambria Iron Co., where his son and two grandsons are employed. He has one daughter who lives in Cleveland, Ohio. His oldest son, Edwin, with his wife and two children, perished when the great dam at Johnstown broke and in one half hour wiped out more than 2,500 lives. Although they searched for 30 days among the dead in the various morgues no trace of their lost ones was ever found.

Stephen Stearns, who lived on the farm until lately owned by his son, James O'Leary, was one of the first of the Lovell Center to go to Ebenezer, where he engaged extensively in the shooks business for a few years, and then returned to Lovell where he died in 1888. Of his children who moved away, George is now living in Pennsylvania; Matilda married and moved to Indiana, where she died; Arabella married and moved away. She died but a few years ago. Stephen is now living in Colorado, and Sewell in the state of Washington. Wilbur and Ella are living at Audubon in Audubon county, Iowa. He has a nice farm of his own six miles from town. He is married and has a fine home. He is doing fine in every way. He is not an office seeker but nevertheless held the office in his township of township assessor for the past 20 years.

Ella M. Stearns is one of the foremost educators of western Iowa. She came to Audubon with her mother in 1875. Her mother died a few years later, and she by her own exertion and energy obtained a good education. For 20 years she taught in the schools of the city of Audubon, a part of the time as principal. Two years ago she was elected county superintendent of schools of Audubon county, without opposition, being nominated by the Republicans and endorsed by the Democrats. Last fall she was elected by the unanimous vote of all parties. She is an honor to her native town of Lovell, and has proven herself

The Direct Primary Law.

We quote from a pamphlet on this subject:
"There is nothing complex about the direct primary law. It is easy to understand, and far more simple in operation than the caucus and convention law now in force. It is simply an adaptation of existing election laws to the choice of party candidates by the members of the different political parties. Instead of holding caucuses, which choose one set of delegates to go to the State convention, one set to go to the congressional convention, one set to go to the county convention, the members of each party vote directly for the man whom they severally desire to see nominated for governor or congressman or senator or county officer.

"Under the caucus system it is notorious that very few voters attend the caucuses. They feel that they cannot for nothing, and stay away. Consequently the caucuses are often controlled by a few interested persons. The delegates when elected are not permitted to meet and choose candidates upon calm and deliberate consideration together. The nomination is the result of skillful political bargaining, manipulation and chicanery.

"Under the direct primary there is no such travesty on popular government. The names of aspirants in each party for nomination to each office are printed upon the ballot of their party. Upon the primary day the voters go to the polls just as they now do at elections, and each man receives from the election officer the ballot of his party. He goes to the voting booth and marks it, voting for the man for each office that he deems best to see nominated. After the primary the election officers count the votes cast for each aspirant. Just as they do now at elections, and the one having the highest number of votes for sheriff or state senator, or congressman, or governor, is the nominee of his party for that office. The proceeding is the first direct election because it is the members of each party of the candidates that they desire to have represented on the party ticket at the election following.

"Could anything be more simple in practice, or more equitable in principle. It gives to every individual voter his fair voice in the choice of party candidates. Each man's vote counts one and counts for the man he wants to see nominated.

"The direct primary, as it has been seen above, would give to every Democrat and every Republican, no matter where he lives, an equal voice in choosing candidates of his party. It would take the nomination of candidates out of the hands of the professional politicians and out of the hands of corporations, who through their agents, can control conventions, and put it into the hands of the whole people, who can never be corrupted or improperly controlled.

"From its beginning, fifty years ago, the direct primary system has been constantly widening, until now the law, in one form or another, is in force in Alabama, Arkansas, California, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Nebraska, New Jersey, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Washington, and Wisconsin. In California the first direct primary law adopted was held to be in conflict with the constitution of the state. It was accordingly necessary to amend the constitution. An amendment was adopted and submitted to the people, and was ratified at the last election.

"No state which has ever adopted a direct primary law has afterwards repeated it."

Thurston, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Demerit, Herman Thurston, Arthur Cameron, Lila Swain, Villa Gammon and Rowena Graham. For Better Roads.

Many Americans who live in or near large cities would be surprised to hear it stated that the United States has the poorest plan of any civilized country in the world. Nevertheless, the statement is declared by all who have had an opportunity to learn by experience to be unquestionable true, when the roads of the whole country are considered. Lately there has been much criticism of the roads. The damage is so great that France the government has been forced to take up the matter, and is even now studying preventive plans. In the United States however, it may be that the automobile will yet prove a powerful influence in better roads.

The American Automobile Association has recently held a two day's good roads convention in Buffalo, at which provision was made for practical demonstrations of the best methods of road building and repairing, and for experiments looking toward the discovery of a binding material which will not be sucked out by the pneumatic tires.

There are signs too, says Youth's Companion, that the old policy of throwing upon the towns the burden of building the roads and keeping them in repair is to be superseded by the more sensible plan of having the State do it.

The towns will, of course, care for their own streets, but the main highways should be built and cared for by the State, as they are in France, Germany and Switzerland. The National Government has decided to send the Director for the Department of Roads to the international good roads convention which will open in France in October, and at which the problem of the automobile and the roads will receive special attention.

Making Moving Pictures.

Thrilling Scenes Built to Order by Five Dollar a Day Actors.

Four thousand persons packed the space in front of Borough Hall, Brooklyn, the while they gazed at a baseball bulletin board. The police moved here and there clearing the car tracks. Up came a boy. He didn't look much like a boy—because he was an actor. Behind him toddled an old woman, and behind her came a stage manager, a camera man and a helper. Scarcely had the old woman established herself on the curbstone before a trolley car came clanging down the avenue. The boy spat professionally on his hands. The old lady gathered herself together. The car was 50 feet away and bowling along in a lively fashion.

"Now go!" yelled the stage manager. Out into the track she went. It was a business of a second and a split second. Subtly somewhere a camera began clicking off its little stamp pictures, the photographer turning away a crank like a housewife grinding coffee.

"Now you!" was the second command. This time the boy leaped out. The car came jarring to a standstill. The motorman jumped down to the rescue. "Keep back!" the stage manager said. "Let the boy save her."

Then the crowd took its eyes off the baseball results long enough to stare at the picture of a young man carrying an old woman in his arms to safety out from under the very wheels of the terrible trolley car. "Who got hit?" was the old lady's query. "What is it?" asked the boy. "No, it was the American Vitaphone Company's crew of 55-day actors, bound on their day's work of telling in pictures the heroic 'Life of a New York Lad'—600 feet of it and 20 pictures to the foot.

Sometimes it isn't a noble lady, but a clever thief escaping from Sing Sing—"Sing Sing" being a set of canvas scenery down in a peaceful Long Island studio; or it is a band of actor desperadoes holding up a characterful train; or, at least, is real—and robbing actor passengers of much actor money and actor jewels. Sometimes it is a company of clowns, all rolling themselves into one and then disentangling again, a mere trick of film-patching; or, again, a man sliding up a rope—by simply reversing the run of the film; and sometimes it is the Russo Japanese war, actually taken upon the spot by a Russian war photographer, or a whaling big whale, and that you may count upon is the real thing, with the camera operator making pictures against time from the uncertain perch on a dock rail.

Fresh Air Necessary.

Intelligent people refuse to open a window wide owing to the fear of drafts. They will open it six inches at the top—which is a minimum amount of window opening—but do not open the bottom sash.

They do not realize that drafts are not caused by windows being open too far, but on account of their not being opened enough.

The window should be opened at the bottom as well as top, and if one is afraid of the air blowing in directly on the body, a board the height of the opening may be placed in front of the space. The air current will rise above the board, drive the heated air out at top of window. The greatest mistake of all is to keep the window almost closed, in fear of becoming chilled and cold. Especially in the night time, when the air should be frequently renewed, the windows should be opened wide.

If chilliness starts to creep over the sleeper, the fault can easily be overcome by adding more bed covers. It doesn't make any difference how warm the body is kept with blankets, but the room should be well ventilated and the air should be fresh in the morning.

Misery in Stomach.

Why not start now—today, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion? A dieted stomach gets the blues and grumbles. Give it a good eat, then take Pape's Diaphepsin to start the digestive juices working. There will be no dyspepsia or bloating of Gas or eructations of undigested food; no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach or heartburn, sick headache and Dizziness, and your food will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diaphepsin costs only 50 cents for a large case at any drug store here, and will relieve the most obstinate case of Indigestion and Upset Stomach in five minutes.

There is nothing else better to take Gas from Stomach and clean the stomach and intestines, besides, one tri-angle will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all your food the same as a sound, healthy stomach would do it.

When Diaphepsin works, your stomach rests—gets itself in order, cleans up—and then you feel like eating when you come to the table, and what you eat will do you good.

Absolute relief from all Stomach Misery is waiting for you as soon as you decide to begin taking Diaphepsin. Tell your druggist that you want Pape's Diaphepsin, because you want to be thoroughly cured of Indigestion.

Maine Retail Merchant's association will meet in Waterville, Wednesday, Jan. 20.

NOTICE OF FIDELITY.

Whereas Frank P. Knapp of Norway, in the County of Oxford and State of Maine, by his last will and testament, dated the 16th day of April, 1908, and recorded in the Oxford Registry of Deeds, Book 30, Page 271, conveyed to the undersigned, a certain parcel of real estate situate in Rumford in said county and state, and bounded as follows:

"The farm on Hall's Hill, so called, formerly known as the E. Knapp or Dupont farm, being the same farm recently conveyed to said Knapp by John O. Decker. This said conveyance being subject to two certain mortgages on the same now held by the Rumford Falls Trust Company."

And whereas the condition of said mortgage has been broken, now therefore by reason of the breach of said mortgage, I, the undersigned, do hereby certify that I am a foreclosure of said mortgage.

Amethyst, Lucky Stone for 1909.

The prophet Zedekiel has just assured us that the amethyst is to be the "lucky stone" for the year 1909, this conjecture being based on an Oriental superstition that two nines in the figures of a year signified an access of great prosperity in all manner of things. Particularly in love and friendship is luck to prevail for the wearers of the amethyst, since that gem is supposed to denote sincerity, just as the opal is supposed to bring untold happiness upon its owner.

The present possessor of the greatest opal in the world is also one of the most untold of mortals. He is the Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria-Hungary (from the latter of which kingdoms opals are produced) and, according to the soothsayers, the sovereign's possession of an opal weighing seventeen ounces and measuring five inches by three, is said to be the cause of his royal sorrow. His eldest son, Rudolph, committed suicide; his empress was murdered; another son deserted the imperial home never to return; to instance but a few of the Emperor's misfortunes.

Thus the occasional lucky amethyst is "not drunk," and according to the Greeks it was a charm against the evils of intoxication, a point which, in 1909, will cause it to be of more interest than ever, since the new president, Mr. T. M. Roosevelt, is said to be a great lover of an expensive stone, and the purple-violet hues of amethyst gems are commonly known. The color is due to peroxide of iron, and the gem is found in India, in Ceylon, in Brazil and in vast masses under the volcanic lava of Lake Superior.

Among many nations a particular gem is worn by the superstitious during each month. The garnet, for example, is worn in January and signifies constancy. The amethyst is worn in February; the bloodstone, signifying courage, in March. The sapphire denotes repentance and is worn in April. Winning love is betokened by the Emerald in May. In June wear agate for health; in July the opal, for contentment. If you should wear in August wear a sardonyx for luck. It never fails, they say, if you fear that your mind is giving way, wear a chrysolite in September. Beware of the opal in October, but wear a topaz and win good friends in November. If you desire prosperity, sport a turquoise in December.

The Girl Who Poses.

There are girls who never give their looks a thought who are yet appalling posers. If physical self-consciousness is laughable, a mental pose is worthy. It is such a pitiable give-away of the real woman.

Who has not met the girl who poses as ultra nice? She puts on a horrified expression at the least breach of etiquette. No call to stand aside will throw her into fits of outraged propriety. Too often she is the woman who will go to lengths which are impossible with less squeamish friends.

Then there is the literary and dramatic poser. She is never tired of reading a modern novel or giving way to joyous laughter at any vaudeville sketch. She is painfully superior to clever limonics, and puts on a rudely bored air at any play that is not Ibsen or Maeterlinck.

She talks high art and individuality in one's belongings until nothing would tempt you to show her your pet frock and latest bargain in house decoration. Perhaps in the heart she bankers for success trimmings and garish colorings, and you know it, but her silly pose does her out of many a private view and small gifts from friends who go in for more commonplace effects.

There is even the food poser. She adores snuff, and she is a voracious eater, but the mention of them causes an immediate elevation of her nose. Her conversation bustles with parfaits, crab meat, a la Dewey terrapin and sparkling beignets, and she would deem herself disgraced should a friend drop in on boiled dinner day.

But most wearing of all is the religious poser. You can endure the woman who parades her looks, her learning, her fine taste or sensitive palate, but she who sports a holier-than-thou for the winter term, those pupils having rooms there being provided for in private families at no greater expense than at the dormitory and with a greater degree of comfort.

Mrs. Buzzell has a house full of teachers and pupils. Mrs. Blanche Page has taken seven and others are cared for by Mrs. Hatch, Mrs. Ward, Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Towle.

The academy opened after the holiday recess with about the same number of pupils. It has been thought best to close the school dormitory for the winter term, those pupils having rooms there being provided for in private families at no greater expense than at the dormitory and with a greater degree of comfort.

George Farnham and Lucinda Spears visited at Jess Littlefield's, Saturday and Sunday.

Loise Lord of Bischoffstown stayed with her teacher, Mary Dresser, Thursday night and Friday.

Winnie Knight, who has been home from Bridgton academy two weeks, went back Monday.

Marian Coolidge has returned to Edward Little high school, Auburn, after a two weeks' stay at her home.

Eugene Lovejoy and family have moved to Rumford. Will McAllister started with their goods, Friday.

A Flea for the Old Lyceum.

It was in the old Lyceum that our Maine boys first learned to stand on their feet and express their ideas, thereby acquiring not only the ability of expressing themselves in public, but self-confidence as well. The fascination of public speaking also took hold of them and made them ambitious and eager to do better than their opponents. It soon brought to life one of their natural talents which would probably, otherwise, have remained dormant.

We make an appeal to the fathers and mothers, to the clergymen, to the teachers in their respective localities to revive the old Lyceum, because just as sure as they are allowed to lapse the State of Maine must suffer and will in time lose its commanding position. As a proof of this we feel safe in stating that if the question should be asked of our older public men where they first got their training and stimulus, more than ninety per cent. will answer the old Lyceum or Debating Society.

MEHET WILL TELL.

We will refund the money on any 25-cent box of Lady Pore's Ointment if it fails to heal and cure piles, salt rheum, eczema, open sores, chapped hands and lips, blotches and all eruptions and ailments of the skin. We challenge you to try one box to test its curative powers. At all druggists and dealers, 15c per box.

GILEAD.

John W. Bennett, a prominent citizen of Gilead, died Sunday, January 3, at St. Barnabas's hospital, at Portland, Me., as the result of a stroke of paralysis sustained while on a business trip to Bist in three weeks ago last Friday.

Three weeks ago Mr. Bennett was removed from Boston to Portland, and there were hopes that he might improve sufficiently to be removed to Gilead, but he remained practically unconscious from the time of the shock.

Mr. Bennett for many years conducted a mill and a large store at Gilead, having a partner in the earlier years in the person of A. S. Jewett. He has operated many mills in the town, mostly for the manufacture of bobbing and box shooks, though he served at times long lumber. He was several times burned out, but always re-erected business as soon as a new mill could be erected.

For the last few years, however, Mr. Bennett has not been actively engaged in business. He owns a real estate of property in Gilead. One of his ventures was the purchase of the buildings that used to stand near the Lead-mine bridge in Shelburne. He moved them to Gilead on the ice and repaired and rebuilt them there.

Mr. Bennett was 62 years of age. He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Mildred, who resides at home. The funeral took place at Gilead, Rev. William Clews conducting the service.

NORTH LOVELL.

George Watson is home from Sweden, for a few days visit.

Fred Mason is at home from Norway where he has been at work.

Mrs. Lydia Heald visited Mr. and Mrs. Perley McKee, recently.

Mrs. Ruth Chandler is having a hard time with toothache and neuralgia.

The trained nurse who has been caring for Mrs. Max Eastman, has returned to Portland.

Mrs. Sophia McAllister of Bartlett-borough, is staying with her daughter, Mrs. Geo. Brown, for a while.

Mrs. Hattie Codwell and Mas. Estell McKee of Four Corners, Albany, were guests at Willis McAllister's, Thursday.

Lottie Harriman, who has been spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Moses Harriman, has returned to her school in New Hampshire.

H. C. McKee of Shelburn, N. H., has visited his brother, Perley McKee, and called on several of his friends here.

Everyone was glad to see him. He was a resident of this place for many years previous to his removal to Shelburn, his present home. He also visited his mother, Mrs. Sarah McKee, of West Lovell.

The Antiquarian supper and dance under the auspices of the Grangers was a very enjoyable affair. The supper table loaded with old fashioned food and lighted by candles in antique brass candlesticks, was a very pretty sight. There were several ladies in antique costumes. After supper dancing was continued until late hours, everyone seeming to have a first class time.

FRYEBURG.

Fred Powers of the Portland Creamery has been in town visiting his sister Mrs. C. W. Pike, and calling on friends.

Lida Ladd, a former teacher but now teaching at Bar Harbor, spent part of her vacation with Mrs. Blanche Page.

Rev. Mr. Stone is improving at the hospital and it is thought that he will not be obliged to undergo an operation.

Charlotte Pike gave a party to a few school friends on Monday. Another party of scholars took advantage of no study hours and enjoyed a sleigh-ride.

Harriet Pike has returned to her work in the New Church school in Walpole.

Mrs. Barker accompanied her to Boston, having closed her house for the rest of the winter.

It has been thought best to close the school dormitory for the winter term, those pupils having rooms there being provided for in private families at no greater expense than at the dormitory and with a greater degree of comfort.
